Carter: Ratify SALT despite Soviet troop presence in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP). - President Carter says the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty should be ratified by the Senate "on its own merits." despite the pressuce of Soviet troops

To link the treaty "with some ection or inaction of the Soviets...would not be in the beet interest of the American people," Carter said. The president made the comment in an Interview on Friday with out of town editors and broadcasters. The White House released a transcript of the interview yesterday.

Carter's national security edviser, Zblgniew Brzezinski, meeting with the same editors, said it is "fundamentally prejudiciel" and 'escapist'' to link the SALT-II treaty to Soviet behaviour eisewhere.

"I think those who are saying. 'Let's hold out on SALT-II' are chickening out, frankly." Brzezinski

Jerusalem Post Correspondent WASHINGTON. - Secretary of State Cyrus Vance wants Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to come to Washington next week ready to discuss Israel's pre-emptive bombing strikes against Palestinian terrorist targets in Lebanon, well-placed U.S. sources said yesterday.

The Carter Administration, which strongly opposes Israei's policy, fears that continued bombing of Lebanon could jeopardize the Palestinian Autonomy negotiations and the viability of the central Lebanese government.

But Strauss once again noted the 'splllover' effect that the fighting in Lebanon bas on the autonomy negntiations.

According to U.S. sources, Vance wants to clarify to Dayan the U.S. position on Lebanon. The Americans fear their position may be misunderstood in Jerusalem

The sourcee eaid that a mis understanding probably resulted from President Jimmy Carter's remarks to Israel Ambassador Ephraim Evron during a meeting in the White House on August 8. At that time, Carter merely expressed op-position to "excessive" Israell homoing in Lebanon. Evron questioned other U.S. officials to make certain that the president was precise in his remarks. They told the envoy that Carter knew exactly what he was

Thus, on the basis of Evron's report to Jerusalem, Dayan stated publicly that the U.S. actually supports Israel's military actions in Lebanon so long as civilians are not injured by U.S.-supplied arms. Dayan's remarks infuriated the State Department and led to extensive diplomatic exchanges with

"Let there be no doubt or ambiguity about this," Young declared. "We cannot and do not agree with Israel's military policies in Lebanon, as manifested in the past few months." Meanwhile, before leaving Washington for London on Friday. Strauss said that his main objective in visiting Egypt and Israel will be to Syrian authorities this weekend kept coastal border checkpoints with Lebanon closed, indicating that recent defiance of President Hafez Assad's regime still grips neighbouring provinces.

Husni Mahmoud Abou, a Moslem Brotherhood leader, speaking on Syrian television on Friday night, admitted planning a wave of assassinations and bombings aimed at provoking civil war in Syria.

the predominantly Sunni Brotherhood in 1965 and began direc-ting murders and bombings in 1970 with the aim of provoking a civil war similar to the 1975-1976 conflict in Abou said that Syrian army captain Ibrahim Youssef, who led the gunmen who carried out the Aleppo massacre, had joined the Brotherbood secretiy two years ago. He claimed that Israel, Egypt and the U.S. were the only parties which could benefit from the subversion. The Lebanese Christian militiacontrolled radio yesterday reported a fresh wave of violence in Latakia and sald the city was paralyzed and special paratroop units controlled all approach roads.

The state-owned Damascus radio made no immediate comment, but Western diplomats said "the situation in Northern Syria Is criticai."

Labour meeting sparks talk of party revolt

Post Political Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Is an internal opposition forming within Labour and is Yigal Allon priming himself for a challenge to Shimon Peres for the party leadersbip? These two questions preoccupied party insiders yesterday as about 40 central figures in Labour gathered at Belt Berl to weigh the possibility of setting up a new ideological circle in the party which might not back the party establishment.

The fact that many of those who took part in the Belt Berl gathsring could be identified with the Allon camp heightened the speculation, though many of the participants could in no way be described as Allon

TEL AVIV. - After seven nights of negotiations, a solution was found on Friday morning to the Electric Corporation's six-month-old labour diepute, which led to sanctions six weeks ago and culminated in a 14day general strike.

The agreement achieved hetween the Energy Ministry and the Electric Corporation workers accepis the works committee's central demand to give high-alert benefits to the corporation's 1,800 low-graded workers. national works committee spokesman Aharon Gefen sald

Energy Minister Yitzhak Moda'l bad rejected this issue all along for fear it would create a precedent for similar demands in other sectore in the market. A compromise was finally found when the workers agreed to distribute the benefits gained from the Energy Ministry for the higher grade workers, among the lower grades.

A slight hitch prevented the etriking workers from being ealled back to work at 5:30 a.m. Friday morning, when the agreement was due to ha signed: the Histadrut'e trade union lawyer added a clause to the agreement, whereby no charges will be pressed by the Electric Corporation'e management against the striking workers. The management halked at this clause and the whole agreement had to go back to Moda'i to be re-approved.

Later on Friday morning, Moda'i dscided he did not object to the nocharges clause, but that it should not be a part of the official agreement, but appear instead as an appendix. All the striking workers were then called back to regular work, Gefen said. Gefen said the high-alert benefits would be given from Oc-

Gefen noted that the main lahour contract of the Electric Corporation workers has not changed for 57 years, and that the dispute broke out over an issue which is included in the agreement, but was never applied.

Gefen added that some etriking workers, who bad not been issued back-to-work orders, carried out maintenance tasks and repair jobs during the strike at the request of the National Worke Committee, thus preventing major breakdowns in the electricity system.

Yadin to request inquiry of Sharon's settlement policy

By ASHER WALLFISH

Deputy Premier Yigael Yadin will e meeting Prime Minister Menahem Begin this morning to request that an inquiry be beld into the way Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon apparently got approval to extend four existing West Bank settlements, but instead used this approval to create four new ones.

The cabinet meets at 10 a.m., but Yadin will see Begin at nine and tell the prime minister that the Democratic Movement cannot stand idly by while ministers abuse their powers in connection with settlement in the areas.

Earlier, at eight, the three DM ministers — Yadin, Justice Minister Shmuel Tamir and Labour Minister Israel Katz — will meet to plan their Israel was supposed to have informed the U.S. hy early next year which of the two it prefers, and how it would like to produce the aircraft - totally under licence or extended co-production.

Weixman will not take any hard decision this visit, but instead will sound out the U.S. on its statuse to intuisions by sounding out American the production in Israel of a development of the Kfir, and whether the U.S. would be willing to finance part of the research. It would also be vital to know in advance the American attitude to the sale of the fighter to a the Kfir eltuation. The State Department frustrated export sales of the plane to prevent the transfer of U.S.

The Sinal airfields will also come up in the discussions. Weizman is expected to ask the U.S. to increase participation of Israeli firms in the building of the two fields if possible, and to discuss the cost over-runs expected as a result of inflation both in the U.S. and Israel.

Inflation in the U.S., It bes now become apparent, has had a real effect on Israel's arms procurement capability there and, according to Dafence Ministry sources, Israel is now unable to purchase items approved by the U.S. administration because of a real drop in the value of the ald allotted last year, coupled with rising prices in the U.S.

No figures on Israel's aid request are officially available, but it has basn learned that Israel will be asking for a substantial increase for the next three years (apart from the money set aside for the redeploy-ment of forces from Sinai) to offset both rielng coets and massive procurements on the Arab side.

Welzman will round off his dis-willingness to finance leraella produced systems such as the Merkava tank. Up to now the U.S. has been extremely reluctant to give aid for this purpose. He will also seek to extend joint ventures to include new levels of technology-sharing, and push for the implementation of an agreement reached several months ago for the sale of Israeli military equipment in the U.S. — a market which was until recently closed to Israel.

Aharoni, Oshri interrogated over 1977 heroin scheme

By DAVID RICHARDSON ferusalem Post Reporter

Police have questioned Rahamim Aharoni and Tuviya Oshri — who were named as leading underworld figures during the Mizrahi v. 'Ha'aretz'' libel trial - in connection with their alleged involvement in a heroin smuggling operation in 1977. But the police do not believe they'll be able to pin anything on

The two men, whom the court named as leaders of the "Kerem Gang." were questioned by officers of the serious crimes unit at National Police Headquarters who have been assigned to investigate the alleged smuggling scheme. The plan was uncovered during a covert recording of a conversation they had with botelier Bezalel Mizrahi in February 1977. But there is some doubt whether it was ever pulled off.

Ehrlich slates Ya'acobi for criticizing aid request in U.S.

Post Economic Reporter

MK Gad Ya'acobi's interference in the government's financial negotiations with the U.S. will harm Israel's interests, said Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich on Friday. He was reacting to criticism made by Ya'acobi, Chairman of the Knesset's Economic Committee, who, in a recent visit to the U.S. described Largel's request for U.S. aid for next year as exaggerated.

How, Ehrlich wanted to know, could Ya'acobt — who, be said, is no longer an expert — make this claim when Israel's request had not yet been submitted Ehrlich also said that when he and his colleagues were in opposition they had not expressed their criticism of the government during trips abroad.

Ya'acobi told a television interviewer that U.S. administration of-ficials had told him that Israel would find it difficult to win any increase in the level of U.S. aid. Israel will ask for more aid.

Ehrlich eaid, because it must acquire cophisticated new weaponry following the peace treaty with Egypt.

While he mentioned no sum, estimates are that the increase sought will be in the region of $8b., compared with the present annual receipts of some $1.8b. from the U.S. (neither sum having any connection with aid for the Sinai withdrawal). New estimates in Jerusalem indicate that Israel will need to spend some $300m. more on construction in the south, over and above aid the U.S. has already promised. Ehrlich repeated that Israel's foreign currency reserves exceeded $2.5b. There was still a demand for workers, be said, and there was no need to create the bleak impression that the country was heading towards an ecohomic slowdown. State Revente Administration head Uriel Lynn said the Tressury opposed increasing income tax. A number of ministers have recently suggested raising marginal tax on high incomes from 60 per cent to 65

MOSCOW (AP), - Soviet dissidents and underground writers jammed into a small reception room in a. Moscow restaurant on Friday night to swap toasts and jokes with American publishers. Physicist Andrei Sakharov presented Alexander Hoffman, board chairman of the Association of American Publishers Inc., with a book wrapped in brown paper.

"I know that my book has disappeared," Sakharov said, referring to its confiscation by Soviet censors.

The book, "My Country and the World," was one of 44 U.S.-published titles seized by authorities before the second annual Moscow International Book Fair opened on Wednesday. Sakharov asked Hoffman to pass the autographed copy to Robert Bernstein, chairman of Random House, which published the book. Soviet authorities refused to grant Bernstein a visa to attend the fair.

All major Soviet writers who contributed to "Metropol," an un-derground collection of uncansored pocme and stories circulated in Moecow earlier this year, were invited to the reception organized by the publishers.

Andrel Vormesensky, a state prise-winning poet, eaid: "We have been told (by Hoffman) that publishers

Hoffman said be would recom mend his board "weigb heavily" any future American participation in Soviet book fairs because of the censorship and visa denial.

TEL AVIV STOCK MARKET REVIEW Trading in shares up, but no definite direction seen

By JOSEPH MORGENSTERN Post Finance Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Trading activity in shares picked up sharply in the period under review and totalled W.1.6h., but neither traders nor institutional investors could establish any specific direction. When the week was over, of the 280 issues traded 184 had advanced, 115 bad declined and 31 were unchanged.

The general share index, as calculated by the Central Bureau of Statistics, showed a nominal rise of 0.8 per cent.

The increased activity appeared to be an indication that Israelle are returning from their vacations and once again are becoming involved on the investment scene.

Semi-annual reports continued to pour in. Investors were advised of excellent results and notified that they would receive sumptuous cash dividende and bonus share payments. Yet this had little effect on the shares involved and in some cases the shares of these same companies suffered charp reverses. This was very much the case with the charee of the First International Bank of Israel. The six-month earnings picture showed a 76 per cent rise. The bank declared a 7 per cent cash dividend in addition to a 33.3 per cent bonus abare payment. Yet on the secondary market FIBI shares took a relative dive as they feil by more than 3 per cent. Another example was that of Clai industries, which came through with a sparkling semi-annual report that met with celling pressure on the ex-results and the shares advanced for a weekly gain of 2.3 per cent.

Solel Boneb was the big loser last week as its shares plummeted by more than 25 per cent. The company made an appeal to the Minister of Defence requesting his intervention that Solel Boneb be allowed to supply vital materials for the building of the Negev sirfields. The shares were down at 1380, nearly a third lower from the levels achieved a couple of weeks ago.

Trading in index-linked bonds reflected a minor upward trend.
"Double option" bonds showed relatively smart gains, as in the case of series 2015 which rose by three per cent. Eighty per cent of the linked bonds showed tractional gains of less than 1 per cent, while 4 per cent fully-linked bonds reflected rises of 1.5 to 3 per cent.

The devaluation of the Israeli pound contioued but was relatively moderate, with a net weekly loss of 1.25 per cent. In the foreign currency market the Deutschmark con-tinued to rise strongly, recording a rise of about 2 per cent.

Trading activity this week should go a long way towards determining wbether the Israell public has been reassured by Arnon Gainy's statements to the effect that the Bank of Israel has come to an agreement with the Finance Minister that the terms of the index-linked bonds will not be changed or altered. The anticipation of a very high index figure for the month of August ebould provide a very strong attrac-tion for index-linked bonds. Should this be the case, then the chare market should continue to move ceptions. It reported favourable along its present trendless course.

Better subtitling promised soon on Israel TV

By JUDY SIEGEL

Jerusalem Post Reporter-Hebraw and Arable subtitiee on Ierael TV programmes will be more readable, spaced better and aimost breakdown-proof within two weeks, when a new subtitling machins developed with microcomputers by Broadcasting Authority engineers goes into regular use. Nine eophisticated machines to produce and broadcast subtitles were made by a team headed by Arye Molchanovsky of TV'e development department at a total cost of leee than $80,000. The cost of foreignproduced subtitle machines, which are not suited to the unique demands of Israel TV, would be $360,000, according to Molchanovsky (who also developed the Israeli varsion of the Telepromptsr). For years, Israel TV has used the absolete system of typing cubtities on a roll of paper and manually advancing each line in front of a camera that super-imposes the subtitle on the screen. But It often broke down (leaving the viewer without any translation), produced the same subtitle several times, or caused the line to wander on the screen. A $120,-000 electronic machine hought several years ago from RCA switched titles too slow and proved so inadequate for Israel's needs that TV House returned it and got its money

Uri La'adan, director of TV's engineering services, launched an effort to apply microcomputer technology to the building of a subtitle machine. Under the new system, up to 2,000 titlee may be typed on a keyboard to fill up a single IBM "diekette" — a plece of eoft plastic with a centre hole that looks like a square phonograph record. The lines can be typed both in Hebrew and Arable and viewed on an attached screen. The diskette is then inserted into another machine, which ecreens each title according to a number and advances to the next one elec-tronically within a split second.

The size and form of the letters can be easily modified, and the system is much easier to operate than the paper-real method, says Mojchanovsky

Although the application is new, there is little demand abroad for such a device. Most TV stations use little foreign-language material, and most of what is used is dubbed rather than subtitied. In addition, Israel TV's system required translation into two languages and text running from right to left.

country.
In Jerusaiem, young couples can now get loans from the Housing Ministry for flats up to a maximum price of IL1.7m., instead of IL1.2m. because of the sharp increase in real estate prices in the capital.

In the rest of the country the celling has gone up from IL950,000 to IL1.35m. But the size of actual loans in these areas remains the same as before. Ceilings, but not loan eizes, have also been incressed for particlpants in the "Shalom Pius"

In the capital, on the other band, a young coupis with up to 559 bousing cligibility points will be able to get a loan of ILA00,000 instead of IL350,000 as in the past.

For couples with 1,400 or more housing points, the maximum loan available will be IL950,000, instead of IL.800,000. According to figures published by the Central Bureau for Statistics, the average price of a 214-3 room flat in Jerusalem in the period from April to June was IL1.1m. In Tel Aviv the average price was IL1.05m., and for other population centres IL850,000.

The income ceiling for points eligibility has also been increased because of inflation. From September the maximum income allowable for bousing points is IL17,-000 a month, instead of IL3,500.

Housing loans to immigrants have also gone up. In Jerusajem a new immigrant can now get a loan of up to IL1.1m. to buy an apartment, and in the rest of the country up to IL750,000. Thus, if an immigrant family of 2-4 souls want to buy a flat in Jerusaiem costing not more than IL1.7m., they can get a loan of IL700,000; and elsewhere in the country, a family of elmilar size can get a loan of IL500,000 for a flat costing not more than IL1.35m.

'Returning students' to be redefined

By SHLOMO MAOZ

Post Economic Reporter The Treasury bas proposed changes in the regulations governing the status of 'returning students' for the purpose of purchase tax ex-

It is intended to end the practice of classifying returning emisearles eent abroad by the government or other public bodies as "returning students." Henceforth, the status will only be accorded to bona fide students who have spent two consecutive years at an approved institution abroad or who have obtained an academic degree at such an institution. Until now, students had only to be abroad one year to

The Treasury also proposes to reduce the minimum time a student will bave to spend abroad to qualify for the tax exemption from 20 to 18 months. Recearch students will no longer qualify, although those students already abroad and due to return before January 1, 1980 will still receive the exemption. The time returning students will be permitted to spend abroad after completing their studies is to be extended from two months at present to eix months. Returning etudents also will bave to obtain confirmation from the Education Ministry that they have pursued a course of study at a recognized institution abroad. The changes proposed by the Treasury need the approval of the Kneseet Finance Committee.

Canada will push to free Ida Nudel

OTTAWA, Canada (AP). - External Affaire Minister Flora MacDonald on Friday assured the sister of Ida Nudei that she is mounting strong pressure on the Soviet Union to permit Nudel to leave the Soviet Union.

Montreal lawyer Irwin Cotier, who represents Nudel, eald the minister told Elena Fridman that she bas epoken to the Soviet ambassador here and also asked the Canadian ambassador to prese Nudel's case with Soviet authorities in Moscow. The 48-year-old Nudel, a Jewish activist, has been in Siberian exile for 16 months.

MacDonald, once co-chairwoman of Women for Ida Nudei in Canada, also indicated she would explore a suggestion that she and other leading women politicians such as British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher make a joint appeal for Nudel'e release.

In England, bundreds of delegates to the Trades Union Congress, which ended in Blackpool on Friday, signed an appeal to Leonid Brezhnev calling for the pardon of Vladimir Slepak and Nudel. As raid into Mozambique ends

Muzorewa, Nkomo avoid possible use each other in London

Rhodeslan commandos were back in their barracks yesterday, after a three-day raid against military and guerrilla bases and government instaliations deep inside Mozambique, the military command reported

At the same time, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, Zimbabwe Rhodesia's prime minister, and guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo arrived in London within minutes of each other for a conference aimed at writing a constitution for their country.

A military communique released here said the extended air and ground attack, one of the longest in the seven-year guerrilla war, was launched to avert a major offensive into Zimbabwe Rhodesia by Robert Mugabe'e ZANU forces.

The raid, which the Zimbabwe Rhodesian military sald cost the lives of 15 Zimbabwe Rhodesian and at least 300 Mozambican soldiers and guerrillas, ended as the main par-ticlpants in the peace talks began to arrive in London.

In London, Nkomo and Muzorewa, whose reepective forcee have been 15,000 lives eince the last Rhodesia conference fizzied out in Geneva in 1976, carefully avoided each other in the same lounge at Heathrow Air-

Talking with reporters, they iaunched into immediate attacke on each other's standing at the con-ference, which opens tomorrow, and ineleted that cach would be negotiating not with the other but with the British government.

Muzorewa'e government scored a gain with Friday's announcement in Washington that the Carter administration will allow Zimbabwe Rhodesian representatives into the U.S. capital on an unofficial basis, and that the State Department would maintain contact with them.

But the move drew criticism from the director of Transafrica, an American black organization which fought U.S. recognitition of Muzorewa's government on the grounds that it does not represent true majority rule. State Depart-ment officials said the decision was not final, and the department also on Friday criticized the latest Rhodesian raids into Mozambloue.

Young urges African states to restore ties with Israel

WASHINGTON. - American UN Ambassador Andrew Young, leading the first official U.S. trade delegation to Africa, combined commerce with diplomacy by urging African leaders to embark on a course of normalizing their relations with Israel. Young eald on Friday that Liberian President William Tolbert, chairman of the Organization of African Unity, was "enthusiastic" about epearbeading a drive for renewed contacts with Israel.

According to a report in yester-day's "Washington Post," Tolbert confirmed that he was interested in such a project.

According to the dispatch from Monrovia, Tolbert is expected short-ly to broach the Israel topic with Zamblan President Kenneth Kaunda during the latter's stopover in the Liberian capital on his return from the nonaligned nations cummit in

Asked if Israel's ties with South Africa could act as a stumbling block to talks. Tolbert responded that It was "difficult to eay if I would antlcipate anything negative or positive" from other African states. Young did not think eo. "From our information," be said, "Israel has been observing the 1977 UN arms embargo against South Africa." Trade between the two countries, be added, is "insignificant."

Church council calls for U.S.-PLO talks

NEW YORK (AP). - The National Council of Churches repeated on Fri-day its call for the U.S. to open contact with the Palestine Liberation Young for his service as UN am-

The Council executive committee, meeting at the organization's West Side beadquarters, adopted a resolution supporting Young's "belief that dialogue is indispensable to peace" and his challenge to the U.S. and Israel 'to decist from their no-talk policy with the PLO."

Young eaid he felt that Arab statee 'would all welcome an African role in the Middle East."

His talks with Tolbert, Young said, were not about diplomatic recogni-tion of Israel, although be allowed that such talks could eventually lead to re-establishment of relations. 'My emphasis with Tolbert bas been on breaking (Israel'e) isolation," be "No one likes to be isolated," Tolbert agreed. Talke between Israel and the Palestinians, Tolbert continued, would go a long way towards "easing tensions." Most black African states eevered diplomatic relations with Israel during the 1973 war.

Young again criticized official U.S. policy toward the Palestinians on Thursday, saying it ''did not make cense.'' He sald his eeven-nation African tour was designed to acbleve a better underetanding between U.S. businessmen and the needs and opportunities of Africa.

U.S. to probe of S. African slush funds

WASHINGTON (AP). - The U.S. Justice Department said on Friday It had authorised a grand jury investigation into possible illegal activities within the U.S. by the South African government.

Focus of the proba is believed to be John McGoff, a Michigan publisher accused of unsuccessfully trying to purchase "The Washington Star" with South African funds and using South African money to buy "The Sacramento Union" in California.

The Justice Department declined to confirm those reports. Sources have however eald in the past that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was conducting an inquiry into McGoff's activities.

A South African commission said earlier this year that its government had given McGoff more than $11m. through a Swiss bank to buy interests in U.S. papers. He failed, it said, to buy the Washington paper; but be did purc base the Sacramento

The commission also said McGoff got $1.35m. to buy a half interest in an international television newe agency, UPITN.
McGoff has denied acting for South Africa. There have also been allegations that South African money was funnelled into the campaigns of two conservative Republican eenators, Roger Jepsen of Iowa and S.I. Hayakawa of California. Fedaral law prohibits contributions to U.S. elections by foreign governments. The two senators as said they had no knowledge of any donations from South Africa. McGoff's Panax corporation publishes more than 40 newspapers in a half-dozen states. MCGoff also owns Global Communications, which owns "The Sacramento Union."

PM Ohira dissolves parliament

TOKYO (AP). - Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira dissolved the lower house of the Diet (parliament) on Friday in a manoeuvre setting the stage for new elections aimed at strengthening his party's elim

With cabinet approval, Ohira ask-ed for and received from Emperor Hirohito an imperial rescript, a formality required by law, to disband the 511-seat bonse

Convening later in an evening eession, the House took only six minutes to approve Its owo dissolution. The action came after a joint call by op-position parties for a no-confidence vote against Ohira's Liberal. Democratic cabinet was ignored.

Ohira's party held 248 seats — one more than a simple majority - and the new elections, tentatively set for October 7, could broaden that edge. The Liberal Democrats bope to win cant before Friday's action.

Shia Lebanese hijackers surrender in Iran

ROME (AP). - Three hijackers wbo seized an Italian airliner to publicize the disappearance of a Moslem boly man flew into Teheran yesterday and currendered to the Shia Islamic regime of Ayatollah Khomeini.

A spokesman for Italy'e Alitalia Airlines said the three gunmen, iden-tified as Lebanese Shi'ites, gave themssives up after receiving assurances from Iranian officials that a statement on the reason for their gesture would be read on Iranian radio and television.

The gunmen seized the Alitalia DC-8 jet Friday morning after the Teheran-to-Rome flight stopped in Beirut. They released most of the 175 passengers shortly after arrival in Rome and allowed the remaining 35 to disembark before leaving for Teheran, after 12% hours of tense negotiations between the hijackers and Italian authorities. A few bours after their surrender, Teheran radio began reading the statement of the hijackers denouncing Libyan leader Muammer Gaddafi for the disappearance of the Iman Musa Sadr.

As monitored bere by the Italian state radio network, the statement was addressed to the heads of state and government at the Havana Non-Aligned movement conference.

In their etatement, the hijackers demanded clarification of the mystery surrounding the case of Sadr and his friends.

It called for the earliest possible release of the imam, "failing which we proclaim to the world that we shall feel free to take any steps and that no obstacle shall stand in our

UN halts aid as Tanzanians seize foodstuffs

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP). - The UN bas suspended all emergency food shipments to Uganda in anger over Tanzanian soldiers detaining 16 of its trucks and drivers at Entenbe, an official in the UN Development Programme office eaid on Friday.

The official, who requested anonymity, said the trucks and drivers — about 30 persons — were detained late last month after Tanzanian soldiers stopped them from crossing into southern Sudan with food for refugees.
Emergency food shipments to Uganda, valued at about $4.1m. and sponsored by the UN's Food and Agricultural Organization, were recently halted and will not

Ex-IRA man: We got Soviet arms via Libya

BOSTON (AP), - Irish Republican Army terrorists got several tons of advanced Sovlet arms from Libya in 1977 and 1978, according to an alleged ex-IRA activist.

Peter McMullen told U.S. federal olficials of the arms deals when he sought political asylum in the U.S. in carly May.

"There were some pretty good weapons in that lot, including Russian surface-to-air missiles, RPG5s and RPG7s (rocket:propelled grenades)," McMullen, 39, told. The Boston Globe" in the last of a series of exclusive interviews published in Friday's editions.

"The only problem was that all of the bandbooke were written in Russian," McMulien said. "When I left Dubiln in April of 1978, the IRA had a whole batch of people studying Russian so they could learn how to fire the SAMs."

"They also got some Russlan-made rocket launchers and a big load of scml-automatic riflee." McMullen revealed. "The rifles are a Chinese version of the Russian Kaiashnikov AK47 assault rifle, except that they don't fire automatic."

IRA bombs were often set off with remote control radio devices, McMullen said, which sometimes reculted in IRA bombers being blown up by their own bombs when the British would send out signals over the whole range of frequencies.

McMullen is fighting extradition back to Britain for his alleged part in the bombing of the Claro military barracks outside Liverpool. England.

Soviet shift in Iran policy seeen

Khomeini's revolution a failure—'Izvestia'

Soviet commentator yesterday dismissed Iran's Islamic revolution as a failure which bad brought the country nothing but economic chaos. political persecution and fanatical repression of national minorities.

The sweeping attack, which could signal a colft in Kremlin policy toward Iran, came in "Nedelya," the weekly supplement to the government newspaper "Izvestia." It was written by Alexander Boyln, 'Izvestia's" top foreign policy commentator, who is often seen as an authoritative interpreter of Kremlin thinking.

His article, which coincided with news from Washington that the U.S. is trying to improve contacts with Iran by appointing a new am-bassador, was the sharpest Soviet criticism to date of the course of events in Iran.

WHEN I was a kid, a weekend outing meant overpacking the family oar in anticipation of survival in the wilderness and driving 47. minutes out of New York City to the doors of a semi-rustic cabin at the dead and of a suburban side street:

Liber

Venturing alone deep in the % acre lot I called Our Woods, I would hunt for broken milk bottles that had been discarded there some 15 years earlier. When I found them, close to the surface and thus far undisturbed in their original garbage heap. I felt as if I had covered genuine antiques. Had I then thought that less than 24 years later I would be driving in a desert valley framed on one side by the Judean Hills and on the other by the ancient and mysterious Dead Sea, I doubt I would have been so impressed by the milk bottles. No child growing up in Israel need ever be similarly deprived, for at the same distance outside Jerusalem as I travelled as a child outside New York is the world's most unusual body of water. It dates back over a hundred million years and boasts the saltiest water in . the world. Enveloped by an atmosphere richer. in oxygen than anywhere else on this planet, it is also situated at the lowest point on earth. Combine that with the site of the discovery of the oldest Biblical manuscripts known to man and a neighbouring archaeological excavation commemorating one of the most dramatic epic events in history, and you've got quite a setting for a weekend retreat.

One of Israel's most popular tourist attractions, the Dead Sea draws thousands of tourists annually to its salty shores. In summer, it is mostly foreign tourists who can winter, it's mostly israelis lucky enough to take advantage of what is agreed to be the best season for the Dead Sea. It is then when the days are warm, and the nights are cool, and reservations at some of the region's better hotels are easier to come

Who comes to the Dead Sea and what do they do there? Basically, there's as much diversity among the people who frequent the Dead Sea shores as there is in the resources and activities available there. The sulpbur springs attract tourists with the promise of cure for a variety of ailments; so does the clean, pure air. They come for the Ein Gedi nature reserve with its lush vegetation and fresh water mountain pools or for a first, or even fifth, climb up Masada to relive the momentous events that once took place there. They also come to explore the Qumran Hills within whose caves the Dead Sea Scrolls were first discovered by a young Beduin boy supposedly in search of his lost goat.

They come with their families, friends, or lovers and are accommodated either at the beachside camping grounds or the fancier four and five star hotels on the south side of respite and a taste of kibbutz living stay at the Ein Gedi Kibbutz Guest House. Some come with rheumatism, others with skin ailments, ailergies and breathing disorders but, oddly enough, few people appear to be sick in this popular resort, or the least bit overcome by

Clearly, those who come for the cures believe in their effectiveness. At the asking, you can find any number of people happy to recite a breakdown of the properties in the water and their respective healing powers. Sulphur: psoriasis; bromide: constipation; magnesium: gynaecological disorders; the list runs on, a kind of recipe for health with all the ingredients in one package.

The ritual is simple for those who participate in it. To Sulpbur Bath/ To Sea/ To Mud/ To Sum/ To Sleep, started first thing in the morning, then often repeated again in the afternoon. An. elderly German gentleman-I met lounging on the shaded deck of the Ein Gedi spa, his legs outstretched on a canvas sling-back chair, a cool drink in his right hand, said that the Baths were the best cure he had yet found for his aching joints.

How did you come to try them?" I asked. "My doctor recommended it," he replied.
"Specifically the Dead Sea Spas?" "Yes," he said, "they are the best."

Others shared his convictions, coming from various parts of the world, in many cases from countries famous for their own health "And the heat?" I asked another man fresh and dripping out of the 38° C sulphur bath.

"No problem," he answered bluntly, his tone suggesting surprise that I should he concerned enough to ask. Which is not to say that the people frequenting the baths, particularly in the summer months when temperatures can average between 45° and 50° C, are necessarily a strange sort that have an uncan-ny passion for the heat. Instead, as high as the thermometer-reads, the dryness and the buri-ty of the air combined with the apparent soothing effects of the warm sulphur baths, serves to promote easy breathing and an overall feeling of relaxation. After trying the recommended 15 minutes first-timer's dip myself, I stood up smelling like rotten eggs but enng surprisingly cool. It m "hot tea on a summer day" trick. It may also be more than that.

At the mud baths, I met a couple of young Frenchmen on a break from their university. Sporting the tiniest of bikinis, they were obviously not there to be cured of anything. Elbowing each other dangerously close to the tubs brimming over with thick black mud, they mimicked Al Jolson, then politely invited me to epread some of the stuff on their backs. I did. They then returned the favour. "You like?" they asked, grinning. "Fantastique" I replied, as we waddled down the beach to bask by the Dead Sea shore.

Underwater aesthetics

THE RED SEA is one of the best spots in the world for ecubs diving, a sport that bolds little for the competitive game player, but wins top rating in aesthetic pleasure. More and more Israelis are discovering the joyful eensation of weightless freedom and the visual beauties that accompany passage underwater; and more and more tourists are taking advantage of the eplendid eeascape around Ellat, with its magnificent coral formations and its unending parade of radioow-hued marine life.

THE Kosher Land Company of the Kosher Land

A bunch of books

A bibliography for the traveller in Israel, listed by Walter Zanger.

MORE THAN any other country I know, Israel requires study. With more than 5,000 years of history leaving tracks all over the scenery. it is simply impossible to travel in-telligently without some work preparing the way. You have to read before you go, and read once you've got there. Then you have to read when you get back home. In all cases, the effort is worth it; to drive up and down admiring the scenery is all well and good. But it's pretty silly to get to some famous place and not know what you're looking at. So here! I suggest a banch of books! Use? them; you'll see what a difference it" makes to travel with open eyes.
Start with a guide book, There are lots on the market, most of them adequate. I suggest the irreplaceable GUIDE TO ISRAEL Most everything you're looking for is there, sources, floor plans, references, texts of inscriptions and explanations. For cburches, monasteries, and the like, I have found the Franciscan GUIDE TO THE HOLY LAND, by Fr. Eugene Hoade (Franciscan Press, Jerusalem) enormously valuable, even though it's often boring and repetitious.

Next a good map. No problem; the. government publishes a first class map; Survey of Israel Touring Map, 1:250,000. It comes in two sheets for the whole country. Don't traval without It. Silly to waste your day. getting lost,

The next obvious choice (It was really first on the list) is the Bible. The guide book will give you references, hut you have to look them np. Do lt. If you are sitting at the great pool of Gibeon, even if you've got the archaeology and all the history in order, but have not read how the Gibeonites fooled Joshua, or how the men of Abner fought the men of Joab, then you haven't done Glheon properly. Most homes have an old King James Bi-hle, or the old Jewish Publication Society Bible around somewhere. But you will find it useful to invest in a good modern translation. I have lived with the Revised Standard Verslon (Thomas Nelson, New York) for more than 25 years. It is an accurate and faithful translation of the Hebrew and Greek originals, and has the Inestimable advantage of including both the Jewish and the Christian Bibles - and I have found It quite impossible to tour Israel without reading both.

Recently, I have been working for you throughout the day.

a Catholic translation: THE NEW AMERICAN BIBLE (Thomas Nelson). While the translation is, to my taste, a bit too free, it reads beautifully. And the Catholic Bible always includes the Apocrypba, which is the reason I bought it. So whether I'm at Megiddo, reading of the death of Josiah, or Mount Tabor, reading of the Transfiguration, or at the Etzion Bloc reading of Elazar the Maccabee, the book is there. I found the New American Bible in a paperback edition. Not expensive.

Second only to the Bible is Josephus THE JEWISH WAR.
(Peliguin, Steinialsky). One simply doesn't travel without it, not it you're going to places which were important in the first century of the Com-

Among the small pleasures of life I incinde visiting the Banlas. Caesarea; Birkst Ram or Herodium, sitting there and reading Josephus aloud. And among the necessities of life I consider Josephus at Masada or at Gamla. The book is a Penguin. published in Israel, paperback, cheap and indispensable. (I meant what I said about reading aloud. Try it sometime; sit by the Beit Alpha synagogue, out on the grass, and read of the death of Saul and David's lament for him. Aloud, there, right at the foot of Mount Gilbon, See what it does to you.) If your day is planned to include

Crusader eastles, eburches, villages or fortresses, you will find Meron Benveniste's THE CRUSADERS IN THE HOLY LAND (Keter, Jerusalem) useful. All the history le there, with maps and floor plans. It is in any ease a good book, and as so many of the most fantastic places in the country are Crusader, you'll be glad to have it with you. You will also get a lot of good ideas of places to visit hy reading it.

I don't know of one single book that even attempts to cover the last 30 yeara of Ieracl's historical geography. More's the plty, because almost averywhere you travel you are on land that we have had to fight for. It does seem to me that your Israel library should include Netanel Lorch'e definitive history of the 1948 War of Independence, THE EDGE OF THE SWORD (Massada, Jerusalem), Moshe Dayan's DIARY OF THE SINAI CAMPAIGN (Sphere, London), Shabtai Teveth's THE TANKS OF TAMMUZ (Sphere), and Chaim Herzog's extraordinary account of THE WAR OF ATONEMENT (Futura).

Somewhere on your desk you will need one good reference book: a history of the country from beginning to end. There are quite a lot of lovely coffse-table books. While I have learned a lot from many others, It seems to me that the best of them was a joint effort edited by the late Prof. Michael Avi-Yonah, A HISTORY OF THE HOLY LAND (Weidenfeld and Nicolson). I don't know of any single book that is better. It is back in print, and it is not only useful but beautiful. It's the history book, and you should have it.

Next, Jerusalem. Here you take your life in your hands by suggesting this rather than that book. There are hundreds of them, many very good. others superficial but adequate. The Vilnay or Hoade guide books will help you find your way around, and in all cases you should walk the city with a guide book in hand. In addition to the reference books we listed above, the following should he of uss to the amateur traveller. For reference, history, scope, ecenery and a comprehensive view of the city, JERUSALEM hy Teddy Kollek and Moshe Pearlman (Steimatsky) is the best single book I know. For the city in the days of the Bible, you will be pleased to have a copy of Hersbel Sbanks' THE CITY OF DAVID (Bazak, Tel Aviv) and for the paried of the feeded Temple I have found JERUSALEM AS JESUS NEW IT IN JOHN WILLIAM KNEW IT by John Wilkinson (Steimatsky) clear, helpful, and very much worth having. Both the latter are paperbacks, Anything else you've bought on Jerusalem is clear profit, and all of the other books in this survey are, of course, relevant to Jerusalem too.

So there you have eight or 10 books, many of them paperback, to start with. The trouble with hsginstart with. The trouble with hsginning to study is that it is bard to stop. The country grabs you and won't let go. If you find it happening, don't resist. The rewards of understanding are indescribable, and the only casualty is the family budget. Here is a short list of reference books you won't be sorry you hought.

While reading Bible is fun, and often very moving, It's not easy to understand what really is going on without help. I have found help and encourags ment in THE MACMILLAN BIBLE ATLAS, complled by Aharoni and Avi-Yonah. In one beautiful book you've got maps of everything in the Bible that involved nearly group of the place. volved people going from one place to another. You'd be surprised how much of the text makes sense, geographically, when you understand the maps. I would use the Atlas as the basic textbook for reading the Bible, sven at home by yourself, and certainly while travelling.

George Adam Smith is the granddaddy of all of us. His classio book, THE HISTORICAL GEOGRAPHY OF THE HOLY LAND, was publish ed in 1894. Allenby used it. Everybody else should too. There's no other book like it, for understa ding what happened in Israel, for getting a handle on each and every area of the country, for elucidating why some event or another bappen ed hers rather than comewhere else, for picking up the "vibes" of Israel in each of its separate provinces. You don't have to read the Greek footnotes if you don't want to. Prof. Smith has understood the country as no ons I'know of before or since. His book is serious and not easy. It's in paperback (Fontana, London), so you bave not lost much if you cannot handls lt.

Scarcely less important are the four volumee by Col. Sir Charles Wilson. Those who know nothing of him may at least bave beard of Wilson'e Arch. Though not as learned as Prof. Smith, Wilson travelied and described the land as few men have done before or since. Hie books: SINAI, JERUSALEM, THE LAND OF JUDEA and THE LAND OF GALILEE have been reprinted in Jerusalem hy Ariel and are not ex-

Finally, a serious investment. There are a hundred reasons why svery Jewish bome should have a of THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA JUDAICA (Keter). It le one of the colossal works of scholarship of our generation, covering all things relating to the history, culture, religion and environment of the Jewish people. For the purposes of this eurocy of books, the EJ stands out in scope, volume, and prics, yet is truly indispensable for our purposes. Everything I know about every place in the country began hy reading the relevant articls in ths Encyclopaedia Judaica.

Into the wilderness

EAST FROM Jerusalem the Judean Hills flow into the Judean Desert, a wilderness of savage splendour. Deep crevices and canyons carve twisted courses through steeply slop-ing, stone-ribbed hills, and perpen-dicular walls of rock rise in places to 1,400 metres. The scarce winter rains stream off the steep slopes as ev fall, and summer the desert lies brown and barren.

Hot, dry and inhospitable, the Wilderness of Judea nonetbeless boasts a long and august human history. Jericbo, the oldest inhabited city on earth, was built just north of the Dead Sea probably 9,000 years ago, and for at least as long warriore, mystice, outcasts and rebels have wandered across the desert. The tribes of Israel entered the Promised Land acrose the Judean Decert, and David the shepherd hid from the wrath of Saul by the sparkling spring of Ein Gedi. Elijah the prophet fled, according to tradition, to the desert brook now known as Eln Kelt, and Amos and Jeremiah, born on the edge of the wilderness, took their images from the starkness of Judea.

Herod the Great knew the desert too: be built the mighty fortresses of Masada and Herodium to protect hie capital, Jerusalem, and his spectacular installations for capturing and conserving water can still be seen acrose the desert. The Essenes, the zealots of Masada and the Bar Kochba rehele all fled into the wildernsas in search of religious and political freedom.

John the Baptist preached here, and the devil is said to have tempted Jesus on a high cliff west of Jericho. Christian monks and hermits came and still come to the cavee of Judca seeking solitary lives of spiritual in-trospection. By the eighth century CE the Omayyad khalif, Hisham was hullding himself a splendid winter resort not far from Jericho. The Turks and the British too have left their mark — their water plpss and pumping stations now lie abandoned near the desert watercourses. Today, Israell settlements and fleldschools stand out as green splasbes in the rugged brown landscape, and the tents and flocks of the Beduin Ta'amra blend into the Distracted, abstracted or rapt, the early wanderers of Judea found in the wildernsas a place of refuge or ecstasy. It is only recently that the area is being studied for its own sake and its beauty enjoyed by ramblers and hikers.

deseri wadis is a distant relative of the elephants that roamed the area in pre-historic times. Foxes and striped byenas steal from the Beouin flocks and kibbutz chicken bouses, and there are about 10 leopards in the Ein Gedi region which, according to the Society for the Protection of Nature, are not Nublan lbex fords it among the crags and canyons, and after dark the deeert liliths or night owls call eerily to one another. Six varieties of snake are native to the area: two of them, the carpet viper and the Paleetinian mole viper, ars poisonous. The Sodom apple and the toothbrush tree thrive in the cases, and some of the succulent bean caper plants are more than a hundred years old. Soll that is poor and saline is popular among memhers of the goosefoot

Clearly, water is the key to the profuse life of the Judean Dessrt. The stream heds that score the area are fed by annual flash floods and strong underground springs, and all flow east to the Dead Sea, gouging winding gorges as they go.

The flash-flood watercoursee tend to be the more dramatic, and most impressive among them is Wadi Daraja (Nahal Madregot). A steep and narrow gorge, It has its beginnings high up by the Mitzpe Shalem observation point. In winter, the fierce rains run off the top limestone layers and thunder down through the gorge. In summer, when the danger of flash flooding is past, the athletic can climb down the wadi, descending from level to level by rope. Trapped at each level in rocky depressions, some more than a metre deep, are the waters of the winter flooding, now green, opaque and startlingly cold in the dry desert

Ae you lower yourself down each rope, all that is heneath you is the glistening green water, looking in-creasingly distasteful the closer it comes. In the end, when your arms can no longer hold the rope, you drop unwillingly into the dark pool — and lf, as in my case, you have been taken along to Daraja on sufferance, the only girl in the group and under strict instructions not to complain, you do eo with a smlle on your face! In Wadi Muhalik, to which the dirt track that turns off the Jarusalem-Jericho highway at Mar Saba leads, the winter flood waters are only a memory. A far gentler expedition than Daraja, this beautiful trail locate, and the first time we went there we lost our way. When an IDF jeep appeared in a cloud of dust, we asked for directions, but with a typical unwillingness to admit that be did not know, the driver looked briefly round at the barren lunar landscape and solemnly informed us that he did not "live round here."

Judean wadis are also cut by the cold clear springs which well up from the rocks. Disappearing underground, tumbling over cliffs and flowing into large deep pools, the spring watere hubble and gurgle their way down to the Dead Sea, their course marked by shrubs, trees and flowers - and often by hikers and swimmers too. The springs rise along the fault lines of the Judean Hille: they are fed by the rains that fall to the western (Jerusalem) side of the watershed, but flow east under the ground with the dip of the strata to emerge in the wilderness.

The springs of Ein Zukim (Ein Fash-kha) surface along the shores of the Dead Sea, and a popular resort centre has grown up around them, complete with changing rooms and a cafeteria. The springs of Ein Gedi and Nahal Arugot below it have carved valleys breathtaking in their heauty. Pools deep enough for swimming are only a short walk from the road, hut it is also well worth climbing up the wadis along the marked trails to the source of the springs, to explore the cs ves and waterfalls and for the magnificent views. Nahal Arugot has a trall known as the Ascent of the Essenes that leads steeply up the south of the wadi and down the other side acrose boulders and shale. It is a hard climb under any conditions but don't try it — as I did — with a large, angular and very nervous dog clutched in your arms. whose overriding desire of the mo-ment is to be anywhere else on earth.

Ein Kelt and Ein Fara, reached from the track that turns off to the left after the Inn of the Good Samaritan, are also groundwater springs. Their plentiful waters were piped to Jerusalem by the British, whose crumbling bridges, pipelines and pumping stations etand incongruously in the desert. More recently a local Arab laodowner has built an aqueduct to harness the spring waters for agriculture. The aqueduct can be followed down the wadi to the eixth century monastery of St. George, and makes a pleasant and easy descent. Except, that is, if you are sharing the pathway with a herd of goats. Surer-footed than you and unhampered by conecience against nudging you over the side of the escarpment, they are very unsuitable aqueduct walking partners. The monastery helow and the cliffside retreats around it are still in use. One Christian bermlt is said to have had no human contact for 15

Over the centuries, the Wilderness of Judea has attracted an assortment of people - invaders, rebels and rulers, handits and outcasts, farmers and engineere, mystice, zealots, hermits and preachers. But its unique beauty should not he limited to people as preoccupied as these. Ten minutes outside Jerusalem lies the desert, austere but acceeelble.

Goals galore on 1st day of league soccer play

Post Sports Reporter

TEL AVIV. - The soccer league season opened with a flourish of 25 goals in the first division yesterday. and champion Tel Aviv Maccabi got off to a good start with a 3-2 victory io Peiah Tikva.

Opening day games last season, by contrast, yielded only 10 goals. The win of the day was notched by Tel Aviv Shimshon, which irounced Haifa Hapoel 5-1 in Kiryat Haim. Nearly as impressive was the 3-2 away win by Hakoah over Beersbeba Hapoei. It was the Ramat Gan club's debut in the National League after winning promotion. The other two newcomers to National League soccer were less fortunate: Ramat Amidar Maccabi lost 2-1 at home to Netanya Maccabi, and Petah Tikva Hapoel went down 3-2 to Tel Aviv

Tel Aviv Hapoei, usually a slow league starter, scored a decisive 3-0 home win over Petah Tikva Maccabl. Bnei Yebuda, the Hatikva Quarter team, beat Tel Aviv Betar 2-1 in a Tel Aviv derby. Jaffa Maccabi heid Jerusalem Betar to a 0-0 draw. and Yehud Hapoel and Kfar Sava Hapoei also split points in a goalleas

In the second division, Jerusalem Hapoel opened the season with a 2-1 win in a match played in Netanya. Two of the teams promoted from the third division won their first games. Herzllya Hapoel beating Risbon Lezion Hapoel 1-0 and Beit Shemesb Hapoel beating Haifa Maccabi hy the same score. Upper Nazareth Hapoei heid Bat Yam to a 0-0 draw in Nazareth in its second division

Already in the third minute, Petah Tikva Hapoci defender Ya'acov Butbul gave his team the lead with a cracking 20-metre shot. In the 10th minute Bsnny Tabak put Tel Aviv Maccabi level, from Mosbe Schweltzer; and after half an hour the league champions went into the lead with a goal by Vicky Peretz from a Tabak pass. Schweitzer gave Maccabi a 3-1 lead at the start of the second half. Buibul scored Petah Tikva'a second goal to reduce the score to 2-3, and in the dying minutes Dov Remler missed a giorious scoring chance which could bave saved a point for Petah Tikva Hapoel.

Both teams missed with penalty kicks, Yehiel Salem's shot being saved by Maccabi keeper Emanuel Schwarz and Schweitzer's shot wide from the apot. Six thousand fans saw a keen game in which the Tel Avivlans always had the edge.
Shimsbon piayed one of their new acquisition veteran Yehoshua Feigenbaum playing an outstanding game, besides scoring two goals. It was Feigeobaum who opened the scoring in the 12th minute when be fixed onto a rebound from a Haifa Hapoei goalpost. Hanania Dehan put the home side level within three minutes, bui Shimsbon were on top throughout and added further goals tbrough Feigenbaum, Shlomo Mizrahi, Efraim Arbiv and Gideon Damti. The Haifa defence was in Rafi Eilahu gavs Besrsbeba Hapoel the lead againsi Hakoah after 33 minutes, but Giora Spiegei levelled the score for his new team just before half-time. Spisgel produced a glittering performs for Hakoah in the second half which resulted in goals by Arye Mizrahi and Spiegel himself after dribbling past two defenders and hitting s hard shot pasi goalle Ronnie Moskowitch. Efraim Zvi reduced Hakoah's lead late in the game. Hakoah piayed an open game and at no time fell back on defensive tactics. Five thousand saw the gams. Jerusaiem Betar without Uri Malmillian played an efficient defensive game to keep out Jaffa Maccabi on the latter's ground. Rifat Turk gave Tel Aviv Hapoel the lead against Petah Tikva Maccabi after 35 mlnutes. David Poliakov made it 2-0 in the 52nd minute and Nimrod Dreifuss clincbed the 3-0 result in the 78th minute. Four thousand saw the game at Bloomfield Stadium.

Bnei Yehuda took the field against Tel Aviv Betar witbout two key players - striker Ehud Ben-Tovim. who is at odds with the club manage ment, and Shlomo Kirat, a new signing whom the club forgot to register with the Footbail Association. Nevertheless, Bnel Yehuda were al over Tei Aviv Betar in the first balf, during which Natan Sharabi and Eytan Yeffet scored goals. In the second half Alon Tzubeirl missed with a penalty when his shot was held by goalie Nisslm Djerbl. Tel Aviv Betar's goal was scored by Moshe Kedar in the 70th minute.

Netanya Maccabi scored all three goals in Ramat Amidar, one of them an own goal. Mordechai Haifon scored for Netanya in the first half and David Lavie put the visitors into a 2-0 lead in the second half. Netanya defender Haim Bar put a goal past his own goalkeeper Yftzhak Visoker to make it 2-1, and in the closing stages Netanya absorbed pressure as Ramat Amidar strived hard for an equalizer.

Esther Roth firm on quitting sport Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Esther Roth, Israel's Olympic hurdler and sprinter, has sent a letter to the "Moscow Committee" preparing Israsl's 1980 Olympic team, stating that her decision to leave competitive sport is final.

The 27-year-old athlete and her coach husband, Peter, have been upset by bad publicity in the local press over some of Roth's international appearances. They claim that some of the stories were inspired by officials of the Sports Federation. In the Montreal Olympiad three years ago, Roth took sixth place in ths 100 metres burdles final.

RAMAT HASHARON. — Fresh from six months of outstanding success on the professional tennis circuit in the U.S., American-bassd Sieve Krulevitz is now undergoing intensive training with Israel's Davis Cup team for this week's European Zone tie against Monaco here.

Krulevitz, 28, arrived in Israel on Wednssday night for the secondround match, which takes place at the Israci Tennis Centre's Canada Stadium from September 13 to 15. He bas been competing in the current U.S. open in New York, and started off with a great straight-set victory over French champion Patrice Dominguez. In the second round, Kruievitz lost in five sets to his more fancied compatriot Butch Walts. after leading 2-1. Barring accidents, local champion

Shlomo Glickstein and Number 2 Krulevitz will be Israei'e singles racquets in the match with Monaco. non-playing captain Yosef Stabbolz and national coach Ron Steels told The Jerusalem Post yesterday. The other members of the bost's team are Yalr Wertbeimer. a veteran of 10 Davis Cup contests, and new cap Halm Ariosoroff. They joined Glicketein and

Krulevitz by taking the first iwo places in the series of trials just beld by the Israel Tennis Association. Working out with the four is reserve Tommy Frischer, who finished behind Werthelmer and Arlosoroff among the six hopefuls who fought the round-robin qualify-ing series. Supervising the team's phyeical fitnees is Elimeiech Shobat. On Friday, mors than 500 aficionados saw Glicksiein beat Krulevitz 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 in the first of two trial matches between them to decide who will be Israel's Number 1 singles racquet against Monaco. But too much should not be read into thie result, as Krulevitz needs more time lo acclimatize to local conditions. The second match will be held at 3.80 today. In Friday's other contest. Wertheimer retired unwell after losing the opening set to Arlosoroff by 1-

Monaco's team - wbicb is due here tomorrow evening - will be led by B. Balleret and L. Porfiga, who together took the principality to a 4-1 victory over Israel in Monie Carlo in 1975, in the only previous Davis Cup meeting between the two countries. To date, Israel has played in 33 ties in the competition, winning seven. Krulevitz, who will be making his third Davis Cup appearance for Israel, has won a total of five ATP

(Association of Tennis Professionals) satellite tournaments in the U.S. since April, four of them in singles and the other in doubles. In addition, he bas captured two Colgate Grand Prix doubles titlee this year in partnership with Ruma-nian ace Ilie Nastase, the most recent at the $75,000 meet at Stowe, Vermont, ln mid-August. .

Thanks to this string of successes, Krulevitz now stands 100th in the ATP's singles world rankings, having climbed a remarkable 106 places up the list in less than six months. Glickstein, 21. has also done extremely well in pro competition of late, moving up from 320th to about 250th in the singles rankings in quick time, after winning three tournaments on the ATP's Dutch sateilite circuit this summer. The Tel Aviv Maccabi player has so far appeared in four Davis Cup ties.

Message for Washington

THE BREAKTHROUGH made at the Haifa talks lies in Presideot Sadat's emphasis on a return to a more realistic sense of timing oo the intractable autonomy issue.

It is only a few weeks since Sadat was quoted as insisting on a breakthrough in the desultory autonomy talks by October, or at the very latest by the magical date of November 19, the second anniversary of his visit to Jerusalem.

In his summing up appearance before Israeli editors on Thursday, Sadat openly spoke of the proposed autonomy stage as a transitional period and was obviously in no hurry to rush the autonomy talks along lnordinately.

The Americans are the ones who bave been pushing for speed in the talks, primarily by pressing for further Israeli con-

The American interest, immediately after the signing of the peace treaty last March, was largely based on fears regarding Sadat's ability to survive the onslaught of all the other Arab states who lined up against him in the Rejectionist Front.

Since then, however, American pressure for speed bas been dictated largely by the barely valled Saudi threats ragarding the continued unimpeded supply of oil.

Washington has much to learn in this respect from Sadat. The Egyptian president may have been guilty of some alight exaggeration in pointing to the picture of disarray and instability that is today's 'rajectionist" Arab world. If so, he exaggerated very slightly indeed.

Iraq has just gone through a murderous coup; Syria would seem to be on the verge of internal disorders of major proportions; and Sadat's comment in regard to the Saudi rulers, cryptic as it may be, correctly points to the real threat to the continued flow of Saudi oil to the West: namely, internal disorder rather than anger at Sadat or animosity towards Israels.
Washington cannot have it both ways. In agreeing to the Camp David accords, which calls for a carefully phased approach to the solution of the Arab-Israel dispute, it clearly renounced its earlier commitment to the Geneva concept of striking out for a "comprehensive solution" in one fell swoop. Its actions since March, however, seem to indicate a desire to return to the Geneva concept.

Sadat has understood what Washington refuses to acknowledge: that these two paths are basically incompatible. There can be no meaningful progress on the Palestinian Issue before elther the Palestinians or Jordan are prepared to follow

Nelther the Palestinians nor Hussein are prepared for such a change at present. But in the unstable Arab Middle East pat lence remains the supreme virtue. That is why agreement on a transition period on the Palestinian issue was crucial in making the Egypt-Israel peace treaty possible.

Adherence to the concept of deliberate and phased progress on the Palestinian issue is a lessoo the U.S. should learn from Sadat. It is the message Ambassador Strauss should take back to Washington after his meetings this week in Cairo and

Marking time in Arkia

THERE ARE different versions of Arkia Airlines' financial condition, depending on whether one asks the buyer or the seller. According to the seller, that is, the company itself, its assets are worth over IL400m.

According to the (would-be) buyer, a group made up of Kanaf Holdinga and others, they would not letch more than 11.330m But the company's debts are crippling, oo any reckoning amounting to not much less than total assets.

The new Acting Manager, appointed six weeks ago, has a plan for rehabilitating the eoterprise. This comes after Arkia was put up for sale. A number of investors responded, but only Kanaf's application is still outstanding.

It seems that the decision to seli will not be revoked. The only difference is over the bid. Kanaf bave offered $2.5m., or IL67.5.m. at the present exchange-rate; against which they will take over the whole concern, debts and all. The owners, the Government and the Histadrut, are ready to approve this deal; but the pilots of Arkia have asked for a respite.

The offer by Kanaf deaervea consideration, because they already possess an airline, Kanaf-Arkia. As lts name denotes, it is half-owned by Arkia itself. (The daughter company is, paradoxically, trying to buy its own parent company.) Kanaf-Arkia has a fleet of small planes and does private charter work in a busineaslike manner.

Arkia proper has been anything but businesslike. It is overequipped. Two full-aized BAC jets hang like an albatross round its neck. It is over-manned, and the staff's emoluments have unfortunately - been influenced by the largesse that prevails in

The breaking-point came with the handover of Sinal to the Egyptians. But the loss of this market should not be overplayed. There is planty of work for the airline Inside Israel and to neighbouring ports of call - provided inflated costs are pared down, so that reasonable farea can be charged.

At the present moment Braelis find it almost as cheap to journay to Greece in an El Al Boeing as to go to Eilat by Arkia. It is the need for a cost-cutting exercise that makes the pilots and other staff members bridle. There will have to he dismissals — the employeea recognize that; but they would like to keep the sacrifices to a mlnimum.

Their latest idea is to take over the company themsalvea, hopefully in partnership with a private investor, who would ohligingly fork out the capital. Their first preoccupation would necessarily he the humanitarian one of keeping as many of their colleagues as posaible on the payroll.

The chances are that Kanaf-Arkia could do that better. Air transport cannot be run oo a shoe-string. Arkia must become a full-sized concern, large enough to enjoy economies of scale. Kanaf is already in the aviation business. The two companies together, with pooled resources, might have the size and flexibility to do the job.

The pilots should think of that. It is late in the day to seek another option. Further delay will mean further deficits, and in the end there may not be any buyer left, not even Kanaf Holdings, for their ailing airline.

POLITICS AND BROADCASTING

PERHAPS, after all, there's not much wrong with the chairman of the Broadcasting Authority acting in a manner that does not seem to fit the best staodsrds of public behaviour and attacking one of his subordinates from a public platform.

He has done it before and, as a pedantic legalist, he will surely be able to conjure up some written regulation that will grant him formal protection from attack by his critics.

Parhapa there's not much wrong with all this, for it gives the public a chancs to know what worries the Broadcasting Authority chairman, what be is driving at. And there's certainly cause for worry over what he is driving at.

Less than 24 hoors after the "Almost Midnight" report on the raising of meat pricea. Professor Reuven Yaron, chalrmao of ths authority, was already at pains to point out to a captive audieoce the unwarranted nature of its com-

And what precisely did he record this time as an example of the "politicization" of broadcasting by broadcasting staff members? derstanding and gentle, forbearing bumour; but oo the chairman's lips It was transformed into mocking irony. To sach his own ability to give to his words an accompanying sense of grace, each the capacity to discern differences in nuance.

WHAT, IN FACT, I said (and I am not quoting exactly, because in any case the written word can never be ideotical with the spokeo) was no more than a smiling comment along the lines of, "And if it will boost your morale at all, we'll just add that the reason for the increased price of meat is connected with price rises on the world market.'

To a viewer whose lack of malice matches my own, to ooe who is free of the fear of black Mafia piots at every turn, these words cannot bave been interpreted as a distortion of information, as an attack, beaven forbld, oo the government that had just put up the price of meat, or even as "editorializing," for which should be read "politicization."

There is not a shadow of truth in such aliegations. This is demagoguery, and we must warn against it, for we have already seeo its signs previously.

The chairman has already taken note of the smiling tone of voice, of the fireside-chat etyls that seeme to him to threaten the credibility of objective news, and for his part be would prefer a sterile style. His preference does not run to a newscaster using normal human language; no, he would rather "the news itseif" be brought to the viswer in a language not the newscaster's

THERE IS, of course, aoother possibility, though a sterile one; supreme truth derived from a divine providence or authority of unquestionable righteousness, or from a total set of values subscribed to by all with equal fervour (for, indeed, such a system would be nothing more than a set of interests and interested parties) - and if this is done, then it follows that there will he no variety of intonatioo, no all will he serious, official... Clearly, such a state of affairs would be far more convenient to one seeking calm and even a dumb silence both in broadcasting and among the viewers.

Our chairman's fear of the spoken word that carries a nuance, a certain smiling tons, disturbs me greatly. Such fears, particularly when they are expressed not within Television House itself in a spirit of down-toearth criticism, but rather screamed forth in public, bear the disturbing hallmarks of a budding totalitarianism. For it is important to remember that in uttering such fears in public ons is pandering to the crowd, which will always include those who fear ouance, who seek a monolithic certainty. And this is, in fact, just what happened: oo sooner was the word "politicization" out of Yaron's mouth than soms of his audience immediately applauded and clamoured for more.

Faced with earlier carping criticism by Yaron (and I would not be writing this had the chairman himself not taken to the barricades). I have already told him that it would never occur to me to abandon my habit of speaking in normal ianguage, in words that are more than a monotone, that go he youd the mere pronouncement of 'the important news itself," that I would not adopt the neutral voice of a hroadcaster who is eimply handing down the truth from above.

To put it differently, I have already told him that it would not occur to me to adopt the tone hs tries to dictate to me — with the smile. above all else, strictly forbidden.

WERE THE chairman to look at tatives of greater sensitivity than he evidently possesses (at men who are oot identified, as be is, with a particular political party, who do not serve on the leadership councils of the ruling party, at that), he would learn (from Britain, for example) that there is a profound fear of what is termed, 'the bias against understanding." The faar of several researchers and broadcasters is that rather than helping the public understand what is going on in the world, the communications media cut us off more and more, pile misunderstanding oo misunderstanding. Clearly tha whole issue is far too complicated to be gone into within the framework of the present argument, but I have no doubt that what the chairman is encouraging — that sterila Hebrew, that attempt to present the news as if it spoke for itself - will only add to the media's existing tendeocy to con-tribute to a lack of understanding among the public, that it will but strengthen what sociologists term 'narcotization'' (which clearly runs counter to the aims of democratic broadcasting, which must be to awakeo and to promote understanding).

Language which seems, oo the face of it, to make no pretence at objectivity, which even acknowledges an element of subjectivity, which permits a degree of comment on what is under discussion, even a certain smile, can serve as a tool to aid the listener in understanding the reality, to comprehend the forces at work within It.

But representativee of the regime who have status and power within society are not infrequently interested in listeners understanding iess, rather than more.

AMERICAN PUBLIC OPINION To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post on Israei, but it is us. oot you, who

Sir. - Israel will never be able to obtain the complete support of America. Both Israel and America have the same political system that allows freedom of speech and press. No matter what is done, there are always some who disagree, and they usually express their opinions the loudest. Don't misinterpret these

There are two major trends that are daily affecting a greater majority of the American public. First of all, we are slowly realizing that the oil problem is our fault. THE STATE OF ZIONISM IN ISRAEL activities, embarrassed chrugs are observed.

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. — On my fourth visit to Israel and my last before I become a new immigrant, I am appalled at the state of Zionism in Israel.

By definitioo, I am an active Zionist: I have studied the language, read the polemics, engaged in countless demonstrations, discussed endlessly the shortcomings of Israel, and will sooo attempt to reach the ultimate level — successful aliya.

Have I finished my chores? I throw the gauntlet to Israelis and the plethora of oew immigrants that populate this country. What do you do that is Zionist today? Is serving in the army, doing your reserve duty, paying exorbitant taxes, and fighting for your physical, economic and moral survival your response? This defines an Israeli, but not a Zionist. When I question my Israell friends and relatives oo their Zionist

MYOPIC DECISION

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. - The decision of the Israel Broadcasting Authority to forgo its right to bost next year's Eurovision in Israel is both myopic and regret-

For years Israel has bemoaned its fate in the battle for winning friends and influencing people. Understandahly, its major argument bas always been that in no way can it match the millions of dollars that can so easily be poured into the propaganda by the wealthy petro-dollar Arah countries. Yet, when afforded the opportunity, as a well deserved and hard-earned "right" and not as a favour or a privilege, to reach the eyes and the ears of some magnificeot chance. No one can minimize the expecditure of IL20m., but relative to what the costs of fighting the propaganda war through the media is today. Eurovisioo affords Israel not only a magnificent opportunity but a cheap one at that.

500m. people, Israel forgoes this course, Zionism will shrivel and decay, leaving a withered land ow-ing its allegiance and survival to foreign dollars with its sole chancs of existence depending on its army. MARK B. FELDMAN

TRAVEL TAX To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, -The suggestion by Dr. Jacob Rosin (August 26) to reimpose the travel tax is the wrong approach and reveals a disturbing train of thought.

Jerusalem (Santa Monica, Ca.)

The solution to our economic ills including inflation is: 1. Prompt collection of all taxes oot imposition of new ones.

2. Increased productivity: 3. Efficient and maximum use of manpower.

The Israeli chizen already pays one of the highest tax rates in the world. If he manages to save ecough to go on an overseas trip, wby abould he be penalized further? . Haifa. N. J. MENDELSOHN
